The TARGET-CD Study is looking for people who:

- are 18–75 years of age
- have a confirmed diagnosis of Crohn's disease (CD) for at least 3 months
- currently have moderate to severe CD symptoms, and
- have tried at least 1 previous therapy for CD that did not work or they were intolerant to.

The study is looking at multiple investigational study drugs as a potential treatment option for CD. The study will help to find out if the study drugs are safe and if they reduce CD symptoms.
